
Everfi Module 8 Final Quiz Answers

Learn vocabulary, terms and more with . Chapter 15 It may seem to you that if you know all the words and expressions, you will be able to talk on any topic and enjoy life. But if your thoughts do not develop, if your words become frozen, your thinking will not change either. Remember: you need not only to know a lot of words, but also to be able to apply them in practice. “Even before I was born, I knew that I would be a writer!” Henry Miller To write books, you need to have a lot of words and expressions that help you express your thoughts, ideas, ideas about new books. Think about how you speak on the phone. You use words that help you express a thought or convey your idea, put content on the phone. Every word you say makes sense and, more importantly, reminds the other person of what you're thinking and what you want to communicate. Words give meaning to everything we say and do, regardless of who is in front of us and what is being said. It seems that the same words can be used in different ways, and each time they will carry a completely different meaning, and no one will understand what kind of things they are talking about if they are not written on paper. Using words, we express our thoughts in a way that one cannot speak without doing it. How to change your writing style The word "colloquial" can confuse you. What if you speak too quickly and in a tongue twister? And how will it affect your writing style? In this chapter, we'll look at how to structure conversations and avoid "weed words." Conversational writing style will help you express your thoughts more fully than before. Avoid repetitive phrases. When you use the same phrase at least several times a day, it turns from a small statement into a big speech. The more often you use the same phrase, the more it takes you time and effort. Talk to the point! If you're talking about the weather or war news, chances are other people around you are talking the same way. If you use more information, the meaning of the message will be deeper. Do not make unnecessary "pauses" such as "etc" and "etc". "So on" is a long term that can be misleading and confusing
