Here is a website that will allow you to download the portions of the 2 libraries that are required. It will automatically examine the part planes and keep you up to date on any changes that have been made. At the bottom left it will show the average distance between the two planes. . Analyze the geotechnical and geophysical data of a site and determine the main axis of the site. The image shows the configuration of two planes (outlines in red and blue). The white bars are the sections, the black points are the centers of the sections. A more compact bar will have. Statistics Help
