Friday, February 16, 2011 Hearts this month's card using Springtime Fun... and a World Of Wonderful. This stamp set is so cute! No doubt!! We have a set of super fast growing tulips in our garden, and I love the colors they are starting to show. Tuesday, February 13, 2011 Birthday Cloth-a-long July 26th Hi all! Welcome to my new challenge blog!! We are having a bit of a talent show here at Stampin' up... So you have got a chance to showcase some of your wonderful artwork! I have some awesome hosts this month too, and you are in for some fun!! So... I came up with a fun little idea for our Top 3 winners! Each month, we will have a new theme - and this month's theme is Hearts! To make your project truly stand out, I would like you to make a card. So for the Top 3: Top 3 Winners You are allowed to use only the new items from the Holiday Catalog and Convention-Only Catalogs! The stamp set you can use is Random - and you have a choice of any stamp set that is new to you. The rules for the challenges are: Create a card, mini album, or ATC using your choice of stamp and/or sewing machine. We only allow traditional items such as buttons and brads on the card front, no other embellishments. Your card has to be new and clean, and no rubber or stencil stamps unless you are using a stamp set which incorporates these. If you have chosen to use a sewing machine, this must be tucked into the background somewhere. If you are using a sewing machine, you must include at least one embellishment (stencil, brads, buttons, beads...). You may make more than one card for this challenge. The Challenge will end at midnight on the 26th! Our new challenge coordinator is Ann. The cards will be posted as a group for voting. Our design team is loving the challenge!! I

What's New in the Adobe Photoshop 2022 (Version 23.0.2)?

This pre-packed, gluten-free, pizza has been made with fresh organic ingredients, combined with a dough which is made from Brown Rice Flour and no artificial flavourings, and is baked in unrefined coconut oil (no added trans fats). It's naturally sweetened with stevia and has a smooth, delicious consistency. Terrific pizza, cooked in coconut oil. My family absolutely love this product! The girls on the website did say that it was better with a boiled egg on top. I did not bake it with a egg but, I put it in the oven anyway to see how it was cooked and it was great! Love this product and it's so quick and easy to cook. However, I was quite surprised by the amount of topping I got for my pizza! I would have expected a more generous 2-3 side slices, unless I put in extra toppings. Other than that, I was impressed with the taste and the texture of the crust. It's soft and reminds me of a store-bought food. I'll be buying this product in the future! This pizza is gluten free, however the dough and toppings are not gluten free. I was disappointed to find this out. This isn't a replacement for my usual gluten pizza and I would not recommend it as a replacement. I was confused by this and it was very disappointing. Adsorption of acidic surfactants onto municipal solid waste. The adsorption isotherms of sulfate and phosphate anions onto municipal solid waste (MSW) from a subtropical region were examined. Tests were carried out at different ionic strengths and solution pH values. The curves showed a sigmoidal shape with a moderate maximum in the adsorption. The best fit for the adsorption isotherm and the determination of the adsorption parameters were made using the Langmuir equation and the Freundlich and Sips models. The values of adsorption parameters obtained for different sorbents with different surface roughness values and for different types of solid waste (i.e., broths) were very similar. All of the solid waste tested, although showing a different surface roughness, had the same adsorption parameters at a similar pH. A mechanism for the adsorption is proposed, which is based on the cation-exchange process of the sulfate and phosphate anions onto the surface of the waste. The effect of solution pH on
